The Guardian New Montana Mavericks are back in the American Hockey League, and they're ready to make a big impact. With a talented roster and a passionate fan base, the Mavericks are poised for success in their return to the AHL.

A History of Success

The Montana Mavericks were originally founded in 1994 as a member of the Western Hockey League. The team enjoyed a great deal of success in the WHL, winning two league championships and making several appearances in the Memorial Cup. In 2015, the Mavericks moved to the ECHL, where they won the Kelly Cup in their first season.

The Mavericks' success at the ECHL level led to their promotion to the AHL in 2023. The AHL is the top development league for the National Hockey League, and the Mavericks are excited to be back in the league after a two-year absence.

A Talented Roster

The Mavericks have assembled a talented roster for their return to the AHL. The team is led by forward Jake Leschyshyn, who was the WHL's leading scorer in 2018-19. Other key players include defenseman Bowen Byram, who was the WHL's Rookie of the Year in 2017-18, and goaltender Adam Werner, who was the ECHL's Goaltender of the Year in 2020-21.

The Mavericks also have a strong group of veterans, including forwards Ryan Lomberg and Colin Smith, and defenseman Alex Petrovic. With a mix of young talent and experienced leadership, the Mavericks are confident that they can compete with the top teams in the AHL.

A Passionate Fan Base

The Mavericks have a passionate fan base that is excited to see the team back in the AHL. The team's home games are played at the Guardian New Montana Stadium, which is one of the most modern and state-of-the-art arenas in the AHL. The Mavericks also have a strong following on social media, with over 100,000 followers on Twitter and Instagram.

The Mavericks are grateful for the support of their fans, and they are determined to give them a team that they can be proud of. The team is excited for the future, and they are confident that they can make a big impact in the AHL.
