

Pekin Ducks As Pets: A Comprehensive Guide for American Pekin Duck Owners

Pekin ducks, also known as American Pekin ducks, are popular pets due to their friendly nature and low maintenance needs. Originating from China, these ducks were first imported to the United States in the 19th century and have since become a common sight on farms and in backyards.

Characteristics

Pekin ducks are large, white ducks with a calm and friendly demeanor. They are known for their excellent egg-laying abilities and can produce up to 200 eggs per year. Pekin ducks typically weigh between 8 and 12 pounds and have a lifespan of around 10 to 12 years.

Personality

Pekin ducks are known for their docile and affectionate nature. They are curious and playful and enjoy spending time with their owners. Pekins are also very social animals and do best when kept in pairs or small flocks.

Housing

Pekin ducks need a secure enclosure that provides them with protection from predators and the elements. The enclosure should be at least 10 feet by 10 feet for a single duck and larger for multiple ducks. The enclosure should be well-fenced and have a roof or other cover to protect the ducks from rain, wind, and sun.

Diet

Pekin ducks are omnivores and will eat a variety of foods, including commercial duck feed, grains, insects, and vegetables. It is important to provide your ducks with a balanced diet that meets their nutritional needs. Fresh water should be available at all times.

Health

Pekin ducks are generally healthy birds, but they are susceptible to some common health problems, including respiratory infections, digestive problems, and parasites. It is important to take your duck to the vet for regular checkups and vaccinations.

Training

Pekin ducks are intelligent birds that can be trained to do a variety of tricks. With patience and positive reinforcement, you can teach your duck to come when called, sit, stay, and even fetch.

Pekin ducks are wonderful pets for families with children and people of all ages. They are friendly, playful, and easy to care for. With proper care and attention, your Pekin duck will provide you with years of companionship and enjoyment.
